I. INTRODUCTION

Plaintiffs' complaint alleges only two facts to support a claim of control person liability against the Sequoia Defendants:

- (1) Sequoia owned approximately 20 percent of Isilon's stock before and after IPO; and
- (2) Sequoia placed one of its partners, Gregory McAdoo, on the Isilon board of directors.

As is explained in the Motion of Sequoia Defendants to Dismiss Complaint, plaintiffs cannot state a claim for control person liability by alleging only those two facts. The motion to dismiss should be granted.<sup>1</sup>

II. ARGUMENT

A. Plaintiffs Do Not Adequately Allege Primary Violations by Either Isilon or McAdoo.

To state a claim for control person liability, a plaintiff must first allege a primary violation of federal securities laws. Howard v. Everex Sys., Inc., 228 F.3d 1057, 1065 (9th Cir. 2000). Sequoia again joins in the arguments made by Isilon and the other defendants that plaintiffs have not sufficiently pleaded primary violations of securities laws by Isilon or McAdoo.

Additionally, plaintiffs do not allege that McAdoo is responsible for a primary violation of the Exchange Act. See Compl. at ¶ 299. Because McAdoo has not been accused of committing a primary Exchange Act violation, plaintiffs cannot assert a Section 20(a) claim against Sequoia based on Sequoia's alleged control of McAdoo. Lipton v. Pathogenesis Corp., 284 F.3d 1027, 1035 n.15 (9th Cir. 2002). Plaintiffs do not argue otherwise in their opposition brief.

B. Plaintiffs Must Plead Facts With Particularity.

Apart from the two facts noted above, plaintiffs' complaint relies entirely on conclusory allegations. See Sequoia Mot. at 2-4 (quoting, for example, plaintiffs' unsupported allegation that "[b]y and through McAdoo, Sequoia had the power to and did control Isilon . . ."). Control person allegations must be pleaded with particularity under the heightened pleading standard of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 9(b). E.g. Howard v. Hui, No. C 92-3742-CRB, 2001 WL 1159780, at *4 (N.D. Cal. Sept. 24, 2001); In re Splash Tech. Holdings, Inc. Sec. Litig., No. C 99-00109 SBA, 2000 WL 1727405, at *15 (N.D. Cal. Sept. 29, 2000); In re Oak Tech. Sec. Litig., No. 96-20552 SW, 1997 WL 448168, at *14 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 1, 1997); accord 766347 Ontario Ltd. v. Zurich Capital Mkts. Inc., 249 F. Supp. 2d 974, 983 (N.D. Ill. 2003). Rule 8(a)(2) also requires plaintiffs to allege more than "labels and conclusions," or a "formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action." Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 127 S. Ct. 1955, 1965 n.3 (2007). Under either pleading standard, plaintiffs' complaint is deficient.

Accordingly, plaintiffs spend several pages of their opposition brief trying to avoid those pleading requirements. See Pls. Opp'n at 48-52. They cite In re Metawave Communications Corp. Sec. Litig., 298 F. Supp. 2d 1056, 1091 (W.D. Wash. 2003), and Swartz v. Deutsche Bank, No. 03-1252, 2008 WL 1968948, at *19 (W.D. Wash. May 2, 2008), for the proposition that "general factual allegations, such as 'allegations that individual defendants, by virtue of their executive and managerial positions, could and did control and influence the company' are sufficient at the pleading stage." Pls. Opp'n at 51 (quoting Swartz, 2008 WL 1968948, at *19 ). Neither case supports plaintiffs' position.

In fact, both the Metawave and Swartz courts dismissed control person claims because the plaintiffs failed to allege facts sufficient to support their bare allegations of control. In Metawave, the court dismissed a control person claim against a corporate executive where the complaint alleged the executive's impressive job titles, but did not include facts alleging that the executive was involved in the corporation's day-to-day affairs or in any of the financial or accounting matters at issue in the litigation. 298 F. Supp. 2d at 1091. In Swartz, the court

1 dismissed a control person claim against a defendant alleged to be a “principal” of the
 2 corporate primary violator, 1008 WL 196948 at *4, because the plaintiff’s complaint offered
 3 “only the general (and factually unsupported) conclusion” that the defendant controlled the 4 primary violator, id. at *20. Both Metawave and Swartz stand for the proposition that general
 5 conclusory allegations, unsupported by specific facts, are insufficient to state a claim for 6 control person liability.

7 Plaintiffs also attempt to avoid the pleading requirements of Rules 9(b) and 8(a)(2)
 8 by arguing that control person liability is an “intensely factual question” that “is not ordinarily 9 subject to resolution on a motion to dismiss.” Pls. Opp’n at 49. However, courts are not 10 reluctant to grant Rule 12(b)(6) motions where plaintiffs do not allege facts sufficient to 11 support their allegations of control. See, e.g., Theoharous v. Fong, 256 F.3d 1219, 1227-28
 12 (11th Cir. 2001); Howard, 228 F.3d at 1067; Nat’l Century Fin. Enters., Inc. Fin. Inv. Litig.,
 13 553 F. Supp. 2d 902, 911-14 (S.D. Ohio 2008); In re Flag Telecom Holdings, Ltd. Sec. Litig., 14 308 F. Supp. 2d 249, 273-74 (S.D.N.Y. 2004); Metawave, 298 F. Supp. 2d at 1091; In re
 15 Gupta Corp. Sec. Litig., 900 F. Supp. 1217, 1243 (N.D. Cal. 1994); In re Worlds of Wonder
 16 Sec. Litig. (“WOW”), 721 F. Supp. 1140, 1149 (N.D. Cal. 1989); Swartz, 2008 WL 1968948, 17 at *20.

18 Plaintiffs simply cannot avoid their responsibility to allege specific facts in their
 19 complaint. The complaint contains only two such facts, and they are insufficient to state a 20 claim of control person liability against Sequoia.

21 C. Plaintiffs Do Not Dispute Sequoia’s Lack of Control Over McAdoo.

22 Other than alleging that McAdoo is a partner of Sequoia, and that Sequoia placed 23 McAdoo on the Isilon Board prior to the IPO, the complaint contains no facts purporting to 24 describe the “control” relationship between Sequoia and McAdoo. E.g., Compl. ¶¶ 34, 47.
 25 As is explained in Sequoia’s Motion to Dismiss, “control” of McAdoo by Sequoia cannot be 26 inferred simply from McAdoo’s status as a Sequoia partner. Sequoia Mot. at 9-10 (citing 27 Gupta, 900 F. Supp. at 1243 and WOW, 721 F. Supp. at 1149 n.3). Indeed, the law presumes
 28

1 that McAdoo fulfilled his fiduciary duties to Isilon and its shareholders no matter what his
2 relationship with Sequoia. See United States v. Bestfoods, 524 U.S. 51, 69-70 (1998).

3 Plaintiffs do not dispute Sequoia's lack of control over McAdoo anywhere in their
4 61-page opposition brief. They therefore concede, as they must, that Sequoia did not control
5 McAdoo in his role as Isilon director. Metawave, 298 F. Supp. 2d at 1090 (failure to respond
6 to argument made pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6) is "a concession that [the] argument constitutes a
7 valid reason for dismissal").

8 D. Plaintiffs Do Not Adequately Allege Sequoia's Control Over Isilon.

9 1. Plaintiffs Do Not Allege Sequoia's Day-to-Day Control Over Isilon or 10 Sequoia's Control Over Any Allegedly Misleading Statements.

11 To plead "control," plaintiffs must allege facts indicating Sequoia's involvement in 12 Isilon's day-to-day affairs or Sequoia's specific control over the allegedly misleading
13 statements at issue. Howard, 228 F.3d at 1067 n.13. Plaintiffs allege neither in their 14 complaint.

15 Plaintiffs' opposition brief attempts to supplement the deficient complaint by quoting
16 from the websites of Atlas, Madrona, and Sequoia. Pls. Opp'n at 58-59. Plaintiffs offer the 17 quotes to argue that "[t]he Venture Capital Firms are not mere passive investors, but instead
18 are actively involved in Isilon's business." Id. at 55. However, the only actual information
19 offered about Sequoia is that "it views its relationships as a partnership," and that it issued
20 press releases containing Isilon news and listing McAdoo's contact information. Id. at 58-59.
21 This information does not indicate that Sequoia exercised day-to-day control over Isilon or 22 that Sequoia had any control over the alleged misstatements at issue in this action.

23 Moreover, plaintiffs' new quotes are not alleged in the complaint, and plaintiffs have 24 not requested judicial notice of them. Nor would judicial notice be appropriate.
25 See Fed. R. Evid. 201. Even if the quotes advanced the plaintiffs' case, and they do not, the 26 plaintiffs are not permitted to bolster their deficient complaint with new "facts" contained in 27 an opposition brief. See Outdoor Media Group, Inc. v. City of Beaumont, 506 F.3d 895, 899
28 (9th Cir. 2007) (when ruling on a motion to dismiss, courts may consider only allegations

1 contained in the pleadings, exhibits attached to the complaint, and matters subject to judicial
2 notice).

3 2. Sequoia's 20 percent post-IPO share of Isilon and designation of one
4 director are insufficient to plead control of Isilon by Sequoia.

5 Sequoia's 20 percent post-IPO stake in Isilon, along with Sequoia's pre-IPO
6 designation of McAdoo to the Isilon board, are insufficient to state a claim of control person
7 liability against Sequoia. E.g. Theoharous, 256 F.3d at 1227-28; Nat'l Century, 553 F. Supp.
8 2d at 911-14; Flag, 308 F. Supp. 2d at 273-74; Gupta, 900 F. Supp. at 1243; WOW,
9 721 F. Supp. at 1149. Nevertheless, plaintiffs cite three cases for the proposition that even 10 minority ownership of a company can indicate "control" over that company. Pls. Opp'n at 56.
11 Those three cases have facts very different from the ones presented here.

12 In the first case, In re Musicmaker.com Sec. Litig., No. 00-2018, 2001 WL 34062431,
13 *17 (C.D. Cal. June 4, 2001), the "controlling" defendant, Virgin Holdings, owned a majority
14 of the primary violator's shares prior to the IPO, and remained Musicmaker's controlling 15 shareholder after the offering. In the second case, Schnall v. Annuity & Life Re (Holdings)
16 Ltd., No. 3:02 CV 2133, 2004 WL 515150, at *8 (D. Conn. Mar. 9, 2004), the "controlling"
17 defendant owned a large enough stake in the primary violator, relative to other shareholders,
18 that its control could not be "mitigate[d]" by another large shareholder. In the third case, In re
19 Health Mgm't Inc. Sec. Litig., 970 F. Supp. 192, 207 (E.D.N.Y. 1997), the directors who 20 owned minority shares were held to be control persons not simply because of their stock 21 holdings and directorships, but because of their additional and significant involvement in the 22 affairs of the primary corporate violator.

23 Here, by contrast, Sequoia does not own a dominant share of Isilon relative to other 24 shareholders, and cannot appoint a majority of the board. Nor is Sequoia alleged to be 25 significantly involved in Isilon's day-to-day affairs. Sequoia has only a minority stake in 26 Isilon and has appointed a single board member. Those two facts, as a matter of law, and as a
27 matter of common sense, are insufficient to allege Sequoia's "control" of Isilon.
28

1                   3.       Plaintiffs Point to No Facts Indicating Collective Action By the Three
2                   Venture Capital Firm Defendants.

3               Plaintiffs try to manufacture a single majority shareholder by treating the three venture
4               capital firms as one entity. However, the complaint contains no facts indicating collective 5               action by the three firms. This is vastly different from the factual situation presented in 6               No. 84 Employer-Teamster Joint Council Pension Trust Fund v. America West Holding
7               Corp., 320 F.3d 920 (9th Cir. 2003), which Sequoia cited in its Motion to Dismiss, and which
8               is cited extensively in plaintiffs' opposition brief. See Pls. Opp'n at 54-59. In America West,
9               the complaint contained facts explicitly alleging that two investors "joined forces to exert
10              undue influence" over America West, and, for example, jointly influenced America West to 11              "redouble[] its efforts to push the stock price higher by peppering the market with false
12              statements . . . ." America West, 320 F.3d at 927. Here, by contrast, the complaint makes no
13              allegation of collective action by the three venture capital firms, and contains no facts that 14              could support such an allegation.

15             In plaintiffs' opposition brief, they allege that "[a]ll three Venture Capital Firms were 16             parties to a voting agreement prior to Isilon's IPO that guaranteed that each would have at 17             least one designee on Isilon's board." Pls. Opp'n at 57. According to plaintiffs, that 18             agreement "shows a level of cooperation among the firms and supports the inference that they 19             exerted significant influence over Isilon, both individually and together." Id. The voting
20             agreement shows no such thing. The agreement did nothing more than guarantee Atlas, 21             Madrona, and Sequoia – and others – a seat on Isilon's board prior to the IPO. Decl. of 22             Stellman Keehnell in Supp. of Def. Madrona Venture Group, LLC's Mot. to Dismiss, Ex. 3
23             (voting agreement). It did not require those directors to agree on or cooperate in any 24             particular course for Isilon. See id. Indeed, no facts alleged in the complaint or the 25             opposition brief indicate that the three venture capital firms ever agreed on anything other
26             than the voting agreement itself, which terminated with the IPO. Plaintiffs therefore cannot 27             justify combining the three venture capital firms in order to manufacture a single controlling 28             shareholder.

III. CONCLUSION

The only two Sequoia-specific facts pleaded in plaintiffs' complaint are insufficient to allege control person liability, and no pleading standard permits the plaintiffs to state control person claims with only conclusory allegations and boilerplate recitations of the applicable legal elements. Nor can plaintiffs state control person claims against the individual venture capital firms as if they were a single controlling shareholder. The Court should dismiss all claims against Sequoia.
